Course Description

A survey and analysis of some important narrative genres and myth cycles of premodern India, featuring selections from the Vedas, Purāṇas the Indian epics and Sanskrit courtly poetry, read in translation.

Introduction

This course will examine a broad selection of mythological narratives of traditional India, focusing on figures such as Śiva, Kṛṣṇa and the Goddess, and on premodern textual traditions such as the Vedas, Purāṇas, epics and lyric poetry, read in translation from Sanskrit and other Indic languages. Through these stories, the course will examine important themes such as karma and rebirth, time and cosmology, sacred place, asceticism, class and caste, and the relationship between the human and divine realms. The readings in the course will also provide an occasion to re-think categories such as “myth,” “history,” and “religion” in framing our analyses of these narrative texts. Though the focus in this course is on premodern Indian literature, it will introduce the students to themes and concepts that can be traced through contemporary Indian thought, and will additionally provide a basis for students outside the field to engage in comparative work with other traditions.

Required Texts

The following books will be available for purchase from local booksellers, and will also be placed on library reserve (Library West) where possible. Other editions (reprints, etc.) of these texts are fine, but please ensure that the translator is the same. You are welcome to consult other translations of texts such as the Ramayana, Mahabharata and Bhagavad-gita, but you are expected to use the following translations as your primary references.

Edwin Bryant, Krishna: The Beautiful Legend of God (Śrīmad Bhāgavata Purāṇa Book X). Penguin, 2004.

Thomas Coburn, Encountering the Goddess: A Translation of the Devī-Māhātmya. SUNY, 1991. [optional]

Course Requirements and Grading Policy

ALL REQUIREMENTS MUST BE FULFILLED FOR A PASSING GRADE in the class. You cannot simply skip one of the assignments and expect to pass.

ANY PAPER HANDED IN LATE WILL BE PENALIZED, up to a half-grade per full day of lateness. Extensions without penalty will only be granted in advance of the due date, and if sufficient, reasonable justification for the extension is provided.

1. Attendance and Participation (10%)

It is imperative that you come to class prepared to discuss the readings. This is a discussion-centered course, so attendance and participation are very important parts of your grade; absences will be monitored closely and excessive tardiness will be counted towards absences. Students in attendance are expected to sign in at every class session; attendance will be taken from the sign in sheet in order to eliminate attendance oversights. In case of disputed absences, the sign in sheet will be considered the verification of records. Those who miss more than three classes due to medical illness might consider dropping the course in accordance with the UF illness guidelines. Students should consult the University of Florida attendance policy for any questions or clarifications at the following URL: <http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/catalog/policies/regulationattendance.html>. Students are expected to take notes on the assigned readings and review notes before coming to class. Be in class on time and to stay until class is finished.

2. In-class Quizzes (15%)

Periodically, brief quizzes will be administered at the beginning of class to assess students' assimilating of the required readings. These will not be announced beforehand. Expect from 5-10 such quizzes during the course of the semester. In-class quizzes can only be made up if the absence was due to a documented medical emergency or the absence was otherwise arranged with the instructor. The lowest quiz grade will be dropped.

2. Midterm Exam (20%)

An in-class midterm exam will be held on Tuesday, February 26. The exam will test terms and concepts from the readings and class discussions.

3. Response Papers (30%)

Three brief response papers of 2-3 pages (500-750 words) each will be required. The paper topics will be announced in class, and the assignment and writing guidelines will be given as a handout. These are not intended to be research papers, but rather, responses to specific course readings. The response papers will be due via Sakai by Sunday, February 3, Sunday, February 24, and Sunday, March 24.

4. Research Paper (25%)

A research paper of 8-10 pages (2000-2500 words) will be due via Sakai on Sunday, April 28. The paper is expected to present original research on a topic of your choosing—feel free to discuss possible topics with the instructor any point during the semester. Proposed topics (including a working bibliography) will be due via Sakai on Sunday, April 14.
