COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is concerned with the boundaries between everyday life and another order of reality: the supernatural world, the world of spirits and gods, magical powers, religions, and mystical dangers, and with what happens when those barriers ease or break apart. Examples are drawn from Europe and North America, Africa, Asia, Australia, South America and the Caribbean.

A fundamental premise of the course is that human beings are symbol-making as well as tool-making animals. We understand our world and shape our lives in large part by assigning meanings to objects, beings, events, and persons; by connecting things together in symbolic patterns; and by creating elaborate forms of symbolic action and narrative. The course considers how symbols related to the supernatural world are created and structured; how they draw on and give meaning to different domains of the human world; how they are woven into politics, family life, and the life cycle; and how we can interpret them.

The course is particularly aimed at countering the assumption that belief in witchcraft and spirits is particularly associated with the non-western world. Throughout, our goal will be not to promote or debunk belief and practice, but rather to understand them using approaches from anthropology, sociology, social psychology and history, seeing belief and practice in cultural, social and political context and considering their place in people’s lives.

We will focus on a variety of subject matters including spirit possession and visitation, trance, divination, and altered states of consciousness in particular. This will bring us to explore, among other things: snake handling and trance in Appalachia; spiritualism and mediumship in 19th century America; visitations by the Virgin Mary; claims of abduction by space aliens in late 20th century America, etc.

We will also pay careful attention to the fears that other people are causing harm through hidden or mystical means, and the consequences of such fears, especially moral panics. The primary examples will be the great European witch hunt of the 15th-17th centuries; the Salem Village witchcraft trials of 1692; the fears of satanic abuse; the practice of magic and witchcraft in sub-Saharan Africa; the links between anger and illness in South America; the religious use of drugs, etc.

Historical and anthropological research on these topics has grown rapidly in recent decades, changing understandings of witchcraft and spirit possession, and of Western or global north’s relationship to the supernatural world in general.

In this course, we will be concerned not so much with coming to absolute conclusions as with learning how to analyze belief and practice; appreciating the complexity and ambiguity of the historical and anthropological record; and with weighing alternative interpretations.
There is no final exam. Students will present a quiz (multiple choice and short answer questions) at the end of each chapter, and will write two essays and a small research assignment over the course of the semester. We will see a number of films as well, which will provide a source of ethnographic illustration. Each film’s content will be directly related to one or more specific chapter(s). The quizzes will include questions (multiple choice and/or short answer) about the content of every chapter (and their related required readings) and the content of all the films.

STUDENT LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of this course students will be able to:

- Understand the culturally informed and quite diverse human imaginations of the supernatural world and supernatural forces in different societal contexts, from the post-industrial global north (Western Europe and North America), to the BRIC countries, and so-called traditional societies in Africa, the Americas, Asia, and Australia.
- Better understand the linkages and non-hierarchically determining differences among distinct human beliefs, from more or less complex religious systems, about magic and witchcraft, superstition, sorcery and mysticism.
- Understand the linkages that exist, differently in different societies, between spirituality, religious beliefs, and conviction of the existence of supernatural forces on one side and other aspects of societies including health care.
- Be able to contextualize their own religious beliefs, spirituality, and/or lack thereof thanks to a better understanding of beliefs they are unfamiliar with.
- Be a better world citizen by understanding the existence of different ways of being human, of being spiritual and religious or atheist.
- Describe the nature of anthropological fieldwork and contrast its methodology with that of other disciplines.
- Explain how terms such as “culture” and “religion” are defined in anthropology.
- Explain and differentiate between different theoretical approaches to the study of religion.
- Explain the concept of ritual and categorize different types of ritual.
- Compare and contrast different types of religious specialists.
- Explain altered states of consciousness and describe the role they play in religious experiences.
- Differentiate between various types of supernatural entities including gods, spirits, souls, ghosts, and ancestors.

GLOBAL LEARNING STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the historical and contemporary inter-relatedness of key local, regional and global religious and spiritual issues and events, including beliefs in magic, witchcraft, sorcery and various kinds of superstitions. (GLOBAL AWARENESS)
- Demonstrate the ability to compose an analysis of various perspectives associated with different culturally-based conceptualizations of the supernatural world and their attendant practices and rituals, which can also be linked to different geographic locations on the global stage. (GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE)
- Willingly better engage in a number of problem solving activities in a variety of sociocultural contexts around the globe. (GLOBAL ENGAGEMENT)

These three GL student learning outcomes will be assessed as follows:

GLOBAL LEARNING ASSESSMENTS

- Every enrolled student will have to write two relatively short essays during the semester, one during each half of the semester. These essays will be of 5-8 pages and focus on one specific theme/question, which will be revealed to students two weeks prior to the due date. These essays will ask students to demonstrate mastery of the material covered as well as an ability to apply the acquired knowledge to an improved understanding of the global world. As
Ground Rules

1. Plagiarism is a serious offense. If you use the work of other authors without giving them credit, you will receive a '0' for the assignment and you will be reported to Academic Affairs. To avoid plagiarism, all assignments will have to be uploaded on a turnitin.com site associated with this course.

2. Papers must include a title, your name, the course name and number, and page numbers.

3. All email correspondence must begin with a salutation ("Professor Rahier", "Dear Dr. Rahier", "Hi Professor" etc.) and end with your name. I will not read your email if you fail to include this.

4. In this course, we will be discussing topics some might consider sensitive, provocative, or taboo such as race, sexuality, and religious beliefs. It is imperative that you express your opinions in a respectful manner.

E-text is available

Readings from this course consist of one textbook and a series of articles. There are also several required films. All readings (at the exception of the text book indicated below) and films will be available on the course’s Blackboard website. Required readings for the course are located below in the weekly section for which they are assigned. Required readings must be done PRIOR each week of class. This will allow for informed e-participation.
EXPECTATIONS OF THIS COURSE

Students are expected to:

- Review the how to get started information located in the course content
- Introduce yourself to the class during the first week by posting a self introduction in the appropriate discussion forum
- Take the practice quiz to ensure that your computer is compatible with Blackboard
- Interact online with instructor/s and peers
- Review and follow the course calendar
- Provide original answers to the quizzes’ questions that will NOT be the product of the recycling of assignment(s) the student might have submitted for another course. If students do recycle in this course work they have submitted in another course, they will receive the grade of zero for the entire assignment, without exception. This expectation also counts for all of the essays students have to turn in for this course. All essays MUST be original and may NOT have been submitted in another course. Remember, turnitin.com will flag this as plagiarism. Any essay that is partially or entirely recycling work submitted in another course will receive the grade of zero.

Students are required to visit the course’s website several times per week and to actively, productively and enthusiastically participate in e-discussions. The professor has devised a number of questions for each chapter to begin discussions. It is expected that students will engage in at least 2-3 of these discussions for each one of the chapters for this course. (See “Participation in e-class discussions” below)

- There are eleven quizzes based on assigned readings and films. These quizzes will be a combination of multiple choice and short answer questions and will cover both the contents of the required readings and the films.

COURSE DETAIL

COURSE COMMUNICATION

Communication between students and the professor in this course will take place via Blackboard messages ONLY. Do not use the professor’s FIU e-mail address to communicate with him.

The message feature is a private, internal Blackboard only communication system. Users must log on to the blackboard system to send/receive/read messages. There are no notifications in Blackboard to inform users when a new message has been received; therefore, it is recommended that students check their messages routinely to ensure up-to-date communication.

Remember that all communication with the professor must begin with a salutation like Dear Dr. Rahier or Hello Professor and must end with your full name. Any messages without these two pieces of information, your message will not be read.

DISCUSSION FORUMS

10% (100 points) of the final grade will be reflective of your level of participation in the chapter discussions that the professor will initiate. There will be more than one discussion open per chapter. The chapter discussions will be open for a limited time period, which will correspond to the chapter we are covering in each specific week (see syllabus). When the discussions of a specific chapter will close, the discussions of the following chapters will automatically be available. What is looked for here with this system is your enthusiastic participation IN DUE TIME. It is highly recommended that you keep up with the program set up in the syllabus and calendar. Participation in chapter discussions help students to score better in quizzes. At the end of the semester, the professor will review the level of participation of each student in the course's e-archives and assign a participation grade accordingly. The objective of these discussions is to provide the students with the opportunity to discuss material that might be novel and surprising. Discussions help the comprehension of new concepts. However, in order to facilitate the actual discussions, and make sure that they stay on focus, students should enter relatively brief (3 paragraphs maximum) interventions at a time. It is expected that students will participate in at least 2 to 3 discussions per chapter. Feel free to respond—in a courteous manner-directly to another student's posting. Twice a week, the professor will take a look at the evolving discussions and intervene as he sees it necessary. The e-space of the discussions may NOT be used for the transmission of personal message from a student to another, or from a student to the professor. For the latter, the course's e-mail and message posting systems must be used.

QUIZZES

There are eleven quizzes based on assigned readings and films. These quizzes will be a combination of multiple choice and short answer questions and will cover both the contents of the required readings and the films.

In order to mitigate any issues with your computer and online assessments, it is very important that you take the "Practice Quiz" from each computer you will be using to take your graded quizzes and exams. It is your responsibility to make sure your computer meets the minimum hardware requirements. Assessments in this course are not compatible with mobile devices and should not be taken through a mobile phone or a tablet. If you need further assistance please contact FIU Online Support Services.

ESSAYS AND TERM PAPER

Every enrolled student will have to write two relatively short essays during the semester, one during each half of the semester. These essays will be of 5-10 double-spaced pages and focus on one specific theme/question, which will be revealed to students two weeks prior to the due date. These essays will ask students to demonstrate mastery of the material covered as well as an ability to apply the acquired knowledge to an improved understanding of the global world. As such, each one of these essays' focus will be linked to a relevant recent news event.

- Students are required to write a term paper (10-12 double-spaced pages) that will be based on both library research and brief fieldwork conducted in at least one (preferably South Florida) religious or spiritual community to which the student doesn’t belong. The paper will be focused on one or two closely related and comparable local/global religious performance(s) or ritual(s). One and only one of these two religious/spiritual communities may be well known by the student author of the paper.

This GL requirement (term paper) asks students to demonstrate comprehension of the existence of various perspectives associated with different religious/spiritual subjectivities and diverse cultural backgrounds. It also asks students to demonstrate their willingness to engage—thanks to what they have learned in this class—in a number of problem solving activities in a variety of sociocultural contexts around the globe. For this assignment, it is highly recommended that students work in pairs. If the pair is composed of student-participants in different religions, the conduct of the brief ethnographic fieldwork and therefore the actual writing of the paper will be made that much easier. However, keep in mind that the paper turned in must be done individually.

(See also the section on GL assignments in this syllabus)

FINAL E-PRESENTATION

Students are required to make a short final e-presentation to the class based on their independent research project. A brief Power Point of 10 to 15 slides will have to be uploaded on the course's website (the last link on the Discussion Board page) before the end of the semester, by 04/21 at midnight.
