Course Description:

The United States is celebrated as one of the most religiously diverse nations in the world. Yet, not all religions dotting the American landscape meet with approval and acceptance. Why are some groups called “cults” and seen as dangerous (politically, socially, and religiously)? This fear of cults permeates American culture from our TV shows (Law & Order, Criminal Minds, Boy Meets World, etc.) to news stories to feature films (Holy Smoke, Martha Marcy May Marlene, The Master, etc.). It creates a powerful stereotype that obscures the complex history of religious groups deemed “cults.” In addition, the “cult” stereotype prevents us from interrogating why the “cult” concept exists and how it functions in American culture. Throughout this course, we will address these issues as we investigate the history of specific “cults,” and tackle the methodological and conceptual issues that arise in studying New Religious Movements (NRMs).

“I have made a ceaseless effort not to ridicule, not to bewail, nor to scorn human actions, but to understand them.”

~Spinoza

The course requirements provide you with an opportunity to explore topics and issues in more depth and are designed to help you realize the course objectives.

To successfully accomplish the course objectives, remember to work hard, ask for clarification when necessary (if something is unclear, it is your job to ask me about it!), and keep the following information in mind:

* All assignments must be completed in accordance with the Wake Forest Honor Code. Failure to abide by the rules of this community will result in failure of the course.
* Plagiarism is a violation of the honor code. “To put your name on a piece of work any part of which is not yours is plagiarism, unless that piece is clearly marked and the work from which you have borrowed it is fully identified” (WFU English Department). Plagiarism will result in failure of the assignment. For more information, see plagiarism.org
* If you have a learning disability that requires an accommodation, please contact the Learning Assistance Center (758-5929) and provide me with the appropriate form as soon as possible.
* The Writing Center is a valuable resource for your papers.
* Take advantage of office hours! I’m happy to meet and talk with you.

Course Grade Scale: A (100-93), A- (92-90), B+ (89-88), B (87-83), B- (82-80), C+ (79-78), C (77-73), C- (72-70), D (68-65), F (64-0). *I do not round up final grades.

Course Objectives: By the end of the semester, you will be able to...

1. Identify and evaluate the complexities involved in defining and studying the concept of “cult,” as well as analyze how the “cult” label functions in relationship to conceptions of “religion” and “America.”

2. Describe, analyze, and/or compare the histories, beliefs, and practices of a number of different groups labeled “cults.”

3. Articulate and utilize a methodology for studying NRMS and evaluation different types of sources.

4. Build interesting and complicated discussions about religion, which will advance our understanding of the topic and increase your ability to articulate your ideas, as well as hone your thinking and critical listening skills.

Participation & Professionalism (20%).
Attendance at and active contributions to each class is expected. Studies show that talking about your ideas makes you smarter, and discussing issues and hearing varying perspectives broadens your thinking and helps sharpen your analytical skills. Speaking and sharing ideas with each other is a vital part of learning. It also helps you cultivate a variety of professional skills that are important in the workplace—listening and responding to others, expressing your ideas, discussing areas of agreement and disagreement, empathizing with others, etc.

Expectations: You enter the class with a “C” for participation. You earn a higher participation grade by enriching each class with your reading, research, questions, and ideas. To demystify this process I have created a Participation & Professionalism Rubric (available on Sakai) that outlines expectations, and we will periodically be discussing “participation” in class. This rubric includes: listening, quality of contributions, impact on class, frequency of participation, and focused on tasks.

To accommodate different positions on the introvert/extrovert spectrum we will be utilizing different settings for participation, including class, a class Facebook Page, and in-class activities. There will also be other opportunities, such as the Name Quiz (successfully identify 10 of your classmates to earn credit), through which you can show your engagement with and participation in the course. See Sakai for ways to enhance your P&P grade!

Disagreement is expected in class, especially in a class about religion. We must learn how to talk with each other to enhance our learning and this includes disagreement. Use disagreement constructively and respectfully. You can say: “You made a good point, but I disagree because...” or “I respect your view, but it seems to overlook...”

Professor Pet Peeves: Please note that your professor has a few pet peeves: (1) falling asleep in class, (2) arriving late to class, (3) leaving in the middle of class, and (4) packing up early to leave class. Each of these actions disrupts and distracts our learning community and will lower your overall Participation & Professionalism grade.

Sick Days: The WF Bulletin states that students are “expected to attend classes regularly and punctually.” Attendance is the expected norm; however, occasions of illness or ‘other events’ can at times prevent you from attending. Thus, you are allowed two “sick days” over the course of the semester. More than 2 sick days will lower your Participation & Professionalism grade, and a significant number of absences will result in a failing grade for the course.

Technology: We will be using technology at various times in the class to enhance our learning. However, when we are not using computers/phones/tablets, please put them away so that you do not distract your classmates and so that you can focus on the discussion. A number of readings for class will be available online. I encourage you to print readings out, then read, and then bring them to class. Studies show that we read more effectively on paper than on screens.

Required Participation Log!
Quality discussions and participation do not occur naturally; rather, we must intentionally build meaningful discussions and cultivate our participation skills. To do this, I have created a weekly Participation and Professionalism Log for you to complete that ask you to reflect on and strategize about your participation in a sustained way. Completion of the Participation Log is required and constitutes part of your P&P grade. Detailed guidelines for this assignment are on Sakai.

Research & Reading Reports (RRs) (20%):

I have designed a series of research and reading reports (RRs) that ask you to conduct research on web-based sources and to think about them in relationship to the assigned reading/topic. For example, you may be asked to read an article on “cults” on TV, then watch an episode. You might then be asked to analyze the TV episode in light of the reading. Your task is to complete each RR as directed.

Purpose: (1) To engage the course material in analytical and synthetic ways, (2) To improve your research skills, (3) To improve your skills in assessing various types of sources, (4) To build more interesting and complex in-class discussions.

Logistics: RRs will be posted in Sakai at least two days prior to their due date. RRs should be typed, single-spaced, with 1 inch margins, and they should show evidence of having completed all of the assigned tasks and answering all of the questions in a thorough and thoughtful manner. One sentence answers or minimal engagement with the RRs will lower your grade.

To receive credit for your completed RR, you must print it out, attend the class in which it is due, and turn it in at the END of that class in the designated folder. If you do not attend class, then you cannot receive credit for an RR (no exceptions).

Grading: There are regular opportunities to complete RRs over the entire semester. RRs will be evaluated each time you turn them in and will be graded overall based on the number that you successfully complete over the course of the semester.

NOTE: To receive full credit for your RRs, your responses should demonstrate thorough engagement with the questions. Your answers should be specific, thought out, and go beyond what is obvious.

Grading:
19 RRs=100
18 RRs=95
17 RRs=90
15 RRs=85
12 RRs=75
10 RRs=68

Fewer than 10 completed RRs will result in a 0 for this portion of your grade.

NOTE: Even if you choose not to do a specific RR, you should look at the sources listed and review the questions asked as these will provide a basis for our class discussion.

Printers fail, so if you attend class, but are unable to print your RR, you may email it to me twice over the course of the semester.
3 Analysis Papers:
Over the course of the semester, you will be researching and writing three focused papers that analyze a particular question or issue related to the study of NRMs.

Analysis Paper #1 (10%): Research and select one media source to analyze and answer the question: Why is a cult not a religion?
Analysis Paper #1 is due Monday 9/12 via email by 5pm.

Analysis Paper #2 (15%): Research, select, and analyze two conflicting sources about a “cult” to answer the question: How do scholars make sense of and navigate conflicting sources?
Analysis Paper #2 is due Monday 9/26 via email by 5pm.

Analysis Paper #3 (15%): Research, select, and analyze one dimension of a “cult” (history, theology, gender, race, etc.) that you plan to examine in more depth for your final research paper.
Analysis Paper #3 is due Thursday 10/20 via email by 5pm.

Resources and specific directions for all assignments can be found on Sakai.

Final Research Paper: 20%

The final research paper provides you with an opportunity to go deeper into one NRM and to demonstrate what you have learned over the course of the semester.

Assignment (20%): Research one NRM in-depth by analyzing one theme or dimension in its history. The theme or dimension can vary depending on the group in question and your research interests. Possible themes or dimensions include, but are not limited to: gender, sexuality, violence, theology, law, brainwashing, and media.

Final Research Paper Process:
Researching and writing a successful paper requires time and attention. Thus, you must complete the following steps as a part of your final paper. Failure to successfully complete these steps will negatively impact your overall final research paper grade.

- Final Project Research Plan
- Final Project Research Summary
- Final Project Outline
- Final Project Presentation

Final Research Paper is due Wednesday 12/15 via email by noon.

“There is no analytical substance to the popular definition of a cult as a dangerous group with bizarre religious beliefs that follows a deranged or cynically opportunistic leader. One person’s ‘cult’ is another person’s true faith.”

~Lawrence Foster

Class Question: What have we learned this semester?
Bring your computer to class!

Friday 12/2 Research Paper Work Day & Consultations
Class Question: How can I improve my paper?
Assignment: Bring at least 3 printed drafts of your paper and questions about how to improve your work. Be prepared to workshop!

Wednesday 12/7 and 12/9 Research Paper Presentations
Class Question: What have you learned through your research?
Half of the class will present on Wednesday and the other half on Friday. Each student researcher will have 10 minutes to present the major findings of their research. This is a formal presentation that requires preparation and practice. If you will be using a powerpoint or prezi, please share that presentation with me prior to class to speed up the transition between presentations.

*FINAL: Your final research paper is your final exam. It is due via email on Wednesday 12/15 by noon.

Important Dates for this Semester:

9/12 Analysis Paper #1 due via email by 5pm
9/14 Name Quiz (in class)
9/26 Analysis Paper #2 due via email by 5pm
10/20 Analysis Paper #3 due via email by 5pm
10/31 Final Project Research Plan due via email by 5pm
11/14 Final Project Research Summary due via email by 5pm
11/21 Final Project Outline due via email by 5pm
12/2 Final Project Research & Consultation Day
12/7 and 12/9 Final Project Presentations
